

Ford's strengths, weaknesses apparent in weekend trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's hectic "nonpolitical" three-day weekend in Michigan and Illinois enabled him to show the strengths he will carry into the 1976 presidential campaign. It also showed some weaknesses.

On one hand, there was the warm and open Ford personality producing friendly, sometimes enthusiastic receptions. On the other, he displayed a somewhat simplistic optimism and his generally lackluster speaking style.

Ford's first out-of-town trip since he formally unveiled his 1976 candidacy last Tuesday was reminiscent of the busy schedules he followed in his vice presidential days a year ago.

From the National Cherry Festival Parade in Traverse City, Mich., Friday to an unscheduled visit to May's Fudge Shop in downtown Mackinac Island after church Sunday, Ford was followed by crowds that eagerly sought to touch him and shake his hand.

The most enthusiastic greeting came Sunday at the National Music Camp at Interlochen, where Ford was cheered by several thousand musicians who also sang "Happy Birthday" in advance of his 62nd birthday today.

In Traverse City on Friday, the crowds while friendly were more restrained, with only a couple of critical banners. The President showed he enjoyed it by doffing his coat and tie and waving happily at the quarter-million persons on hand.

When it was suggested to him later that the crowds may be a good sendoff for the 1976 campaign, Ford laughed and replied, "This was just friendship."

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., later volunteered to reporters that while Ford's weekend "wasn't a political trip, the fact that he was able to show such solid support in his home state was a good omen. The fellow's got to start somewhere."

Ford, meanwhile, gave some insight into the way he views his political appeal at Saturday's Chicago news conference.

Asked what he considered the major successes and failings of his first year, he answered with a list of successes ranging from the drop in the inflation rate to disengagement from Vietnam. When asked again about failings, he replied, "I don't think there have been many."

At the moment, everything appears to be going Ford's way politically. The Mayaguez incident set off an increase in his popularity, he has an obvious target in the leaderless Democratic Congress and the economy may be ready to turn the corner.

Compromise oil decontrol plan offered by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford personally announced today what he termed a compromise oil decontrol plan to gradually lift present petroleum price ceilings over the next 2½ years.

Appearing before reporters at the White House, Ford softened, however, a threat to veto any extension of the present oil price control law if Congress does not accept his decontrol plan.

In a written statement distributed earlier, Ford said a veto would be "my only alternative." But when he read a revised version some two hours later, he spoke of a veto as "one alternative."

In retracting a statement that Ford's blueprint for administrative action would go to Congress today, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford's decision to wait until later in the week grew out of an early morning meeting with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders.

However, Nessen said Ford has no plan to alter the key elements of his planned administrative action.

The presidential blueprint would lift present oil price ceilings over a two-and-one-half year period and fix an eventual ceiling of about $13.50 a barrel for all domestically-produced oil.

Ford estimated the decontrol price hike would result in a saving of 300,000 barrels of oil a day and, combined with his other programs, would help save up to 900,000 barrels a day.

Nessen said the delay in formal submission of the plan to Congress was to allow further discussion of a complex matter inasmuch as, once it is submitted, either house would have five days in which to block Ford's move if it was deemed unsatisfactory. The press secretary said by waiting, members of Congress will have more time in which to make up their minds.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., responded quickly to Ford's plan. Jackson, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for president, said he will seek Senate approval of a resolution to disapprove Ford's action.

Senate Majority Leader Mike

Mansfield, D-Mont., said after the breakfast meeting with Ford he recognized that the United States is facing increasing imports and declining domestic resources. He said the President's decontrol plan will up domestic supply somewhat, but will increase the cost of gasoline.

"I am concerned about the effect on inflation," Mansfield said. "It is now about 9.5 percent, and may return to double digit inflation with an increase in the cost of gasoline."

Until Sunday, Jackson said in a statement, President Ford "was advocating instant oil inflation by taking the price lid off on Aug. 31. Now he has backed off but is trying to slip it through on the installment plan."

The Ford program he said "means windfall profits for the oil companies, reduced purchasing power for the consumer, increased inflation for the economy and abdication of domestic price controls to the OPEC cartel."

In a statement issued in Ford's name, the President said that if Congress blocked his decontrol move, he would veto any legislation to extend the present oil price control law that expires next month. If such a veto were upheld, the result would be removal of all oil price controls as soon as the present law dies.

Ford labeled his own intended administrative action a "compromise oil decontrol plan."

Ford estimated his blueprint, if accepted by Congress, would add seven cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline by 1977 and reduce demand for imported oil by 300,000 barrels a day in the same period.

In a statement, Ford said, "There is no cost-free way to reduce our dependence on increasingly expensive foreign oil." He said the price boost entailed in his plan would represent "a small price to pay for our independence from the costly whims of foreign suppliers."

The oil that would be decontrolled under the President's proposal would be that coming from domestic wells that went into production before mid-1972. Under present regulations, such oil is subject to a ceiling price of about $5.25 a barrel. By contrast, domestic oil coming from more recent wells is uncontrolled and sells for about $13.

Under the Ford plan, the present controls on so-called old oil would be gradually removed over a 30-month period starting August 1 and ending in January 1978.

By 1978, the price would be increased, by White House reckoning to about $13.50 a barrel, including a per-barrel charge of $2 to equal current special fee imposed on imported oil.

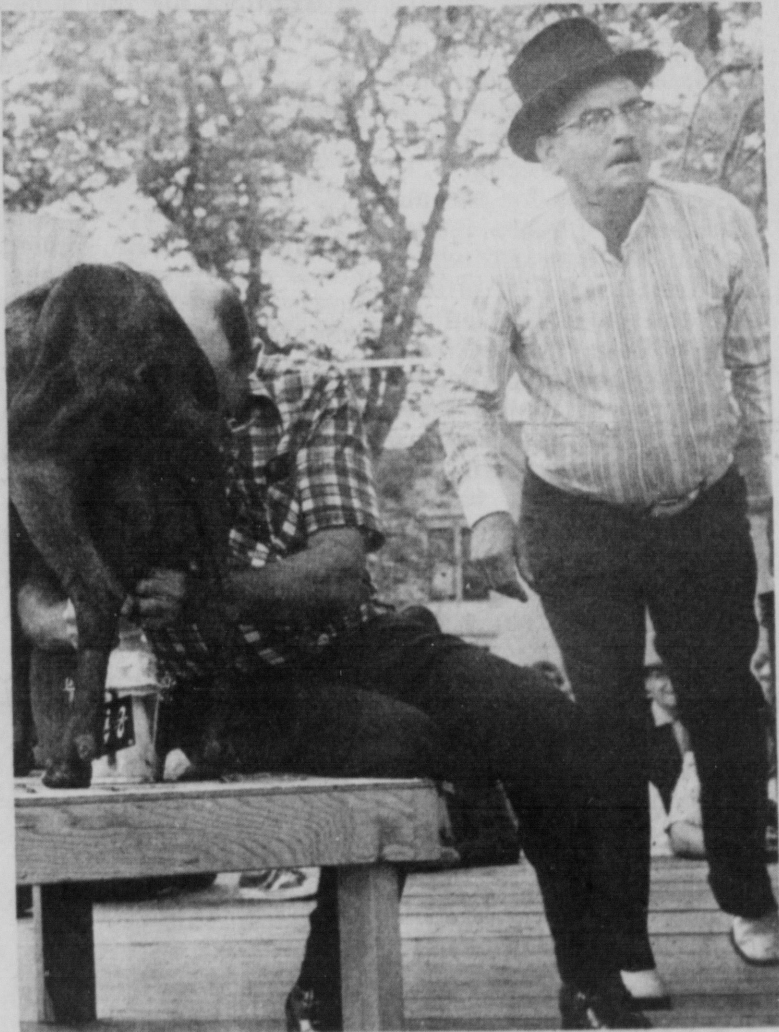

The President said the combination of the $2 import fee and his phased decontrol plan would result in daily import savings of 900,000 barrels.

"If the Congress acts on this compromise, on my other proposed energy taxes including the tax on excessive profits of oil companies and on the energy tax rebates for the American consumer, then the burden of decontrol will be shared fairly. Our period of economic recovery will continue. We will be able to protect American jobs."

Butterfield denounces allegations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former presidential aide Alexander Butterfield today described as defamatory allegations that he was a Central Intelligence Agency contact officer at the White House, but the man who made the original charge was sticking by his story.

"I don't back off from any of that," retired Air Force Col. L.

Fletcher Prouty said Sunday night after Butterfield had denied the allegations on the CBS program "60 Minutes."

In a statement today to reporters, Butterfield said: "Mr. Prouty's initial public statements about me were sufficient to lead reporters to allege that, in my case, there was a spy motive, that I had infiltrated the White House, or in other words, that while there I served two masters."

"Those serious allegations are altogether false," Butterfield said. "Moreover they are defamatory. In that I stated my White House duties in full under oath to the Senate Watergate committee and other high-level investigative bodies.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronauts, cosmonauts, spaceships and rockets are ready for the joint U.S.-Soviet space mission that gets underway Tuesday, ending the space race that began 18 years ago with the launching of Sputnik.

Countdowns ticked away smoothly on two continents today for twin launchings that will propel the American Apollo and Russian Soyuz spacecraft into orbit for a historic linkup Thursday.

The Soyuz, guided by cosmonauts Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov, will blast off at 8:20 a.m. EDT from the Baikonur Cosmodrome on the edge of a central Russian desert 1,400 miles southeast of Moscow.

Apollo astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton will take off from Cape Canaveral 7½ hours later at 3:50 p.m. to begin a celestial chase.

CLARENCE M. KELLEY

Kelley reveals break-ins by FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today acknowledged that the FBI has carried out break-ins for national security investigations, beginning as early as World War II and continuing through the 1960s.

At a news conference, Kelley declined to say how many break-ins were conducted. He characterized the number as "a few" and "not many."

Kelley said that he has not been asked to authorize any break-ins since becoming FBI director two years ago. He said he would present any such requests to the attorney general and would be guided by his opinion.

"Yes, the FBI has conducted surreptitious entries in securing information related to the security of the nation," Kelley said in response to questions.

He defended the break-ins and said FBI personnel "acted in good faith" in authorizing and conducting them.

In 1966, Kelley said, "all such activity was terminated" except for break-ins considered necessary for foreign-related counterintelligence activity.

He declined to say how many break-ins have been conducted since 1966 or whether there was a substantial reduction in the number.

The director said he could not discuss many details because he expects to testify on matters before the Senate committee investigating Central Intelligence Agency and FBI intelligence activities.

He refused to identify the targets of the break-ins but said he knows of none which were not related to national security and foreign intelligence.

"There were a few" break-ins at foreign embassies in Washington in counterintelligence investigations after 1966, Kelley said, without identifying the embassies.

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington. Asked whether the break-ins were carried out in conjunction with the CIA, Kelley replied, "I know of none. Subsequently there may have been information which did go to them. But we were not in partnership with the CIA."

Asked whether full details of the break-ins will be provided to the Senate committee, Kelley said, "It will be a matter which will be completely presented to the attorney general."

Full disclosure, he added, "is a question only he can answer."

The director said the Justice Department also is reviewing the break-ins to determine their legality.

Rural Fire Board studies alternate building sites

By LENNY INGRASSIA

With the rejection on the part of Dean Foods Co. to offer a site on the east end of their Palmyra Avenue property, Dixon Rural Fire Board members today re-examined their building plans at the present site west of the plant.

The long-discussed building plans were dealt a setback in June when it was learned a sewer easement ran diagonally through the proposed building site in the 1000 block of Palmyra Avenue. At that time board members agreed to contact Dean Foods Co. officials to determine if a site located at the east end of their property could be acquired.

Board President Thomas Shaw reported this morning that the firm rejected this proposal. Shaw suggested further study of a plan to place a heavy-duty sewer line below the proposed building site to satisfy city building codes. The line would be open at both ends for clean-out purposes, Shaw said.

Shaw said the plan was given tentative approval by City Attorney Tomas Magdich. Planned is an eight-bay stationhouse of the pole-type construction. No cost estimates were mentioned.

Board member Earl Burket suggested contacting Dixon Park District members to determine if land to the west of the present site would be available.

The matter was referred to Shaw, who is to contact Park Board officials.

The Park Board is presently discussing plans to erect a tennis-court complex in the same area.

After taking a board consensus of an offer by Paul Long of a building site on Ill. 38, Shaw decided to reject the offer. Long offered a site across from the Airport Industrial Park at no cost.

An alternative site is available on North Galena Avenue at the old Kroger store at a cost of $40,000 for site acquisition. Although no decision was made on the site, it was not expected to be purchased.

Rural Fire Chief Edwin Voss expressed his concern that funds would have to be allocated on the present stationhouse to accommodate a new pumper-truck expected to be delivered within six months. "We'll need to have new doors put in to accommodate this," Voss said. "I hope we can get going on this new building before then."

Board members approved payment of $11,866 to Stewart Truck and Equipment Co. for delivery of a truck chassis. The vehicle was shipped to W. S. Darley Co., Melrose Park, for addition of fire apparatus equipment. The estimated time for delivery of the complete truck is within six months.

Voss got approval to advertise for bids for purchase of 2,000 feet of firehose at 1½ and 2½-inch sizes. Estimated cost of the hose was set at $3,000.

Board Atty. George Nichols informed the board of a denial of state funding to purchase the new pumper-truck. Nichols sought funding for the truck through funds from the Department of Conservation.

The 1975-76 budget was formally approved. An accompanying tax levy of $185.818, representing the general fund, was expected to be approved in August. The department's fiscal year runs from May 1 through June 30.

The board accepted the resignation of Jack Staley, assistant fire chief. Staley has been with the department for 26 years. Both Shaw and Burket commended Staley for his term of employment. The resignation is effective Sept. 15.

Staley was additionally honored with a certificate of merit from the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement, recognizing the more than 25 years of service as a fireman.

In other action, the board approved payroll for July totaling $5,717, bills totaling $3,701, and volunteer pay for ten men for the first six months of the year totaling $1,250. The volunteers receive $4.46 per call.

The above map depicts tentative building sites for an eight-bay stationhouse for the Dixon Rural Fire Department. Although an exact location has not been selected, plans call for a site within the shaded area of the present site. A sewer easement runs through the property. An alternative site, on Dixon Park District property, is shown to the left of the present site.

Red China involved in Mideast

By HENRY J. TAYLOR
Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has been privately informed that there is an anti-Chinese angle in Soviet Communist Party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev's invitation to Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) founder Yasser Arafat to Moscow.

Arafat himself, in turn, only will say "the hearts are warm and the snow is cold there."

The Soviet-Red China competitive side also reveals a key to the elusive Mideast question: a formula by which the right of Israel to survive can be reconciled with the right of the Palestinians to a future of their own.

The PLO now has a Palestine National Council of 151 members that serves as a parliament. Theoretically it controls the general command of the Palestine revolution. But there are at least 24 groups that are offshoots of the PLO, many warring with each other, and these groups have steadily eroded Arafat's PLO authority.

To an important degree they account for Arafat's July 3 announcement that the PLO would "step up" its attacks on Israel in view of Israel's refusal to withdraw from Arab territories.

Taking swift strides back to the Dark Ages and the law of the talion, the terrorists among the 24 groups obviously damage the Palestine cause like mad dogs on the loose by their ghastly terrorism.

There is the Martyr Farid Al Boubaly Brigade, named for a Palestinian killed this year during a guerrilla attack on the Israeli military patrol. On July 4, the brigade's immense explosion killed 13 Israelis and wounded 72 in Jerusalem's bloodiest attack since the founding of Israel.

The group operates inside Israel and most certainly has Chinese connections.

There is Selima, a Syrian Maoist group, an offshoot of the PLO's intelligence wing RASD. This column detailed on June 20 how Selima uses Dawson Field, the former British Royal Air Force desert strip at Qaar al Hallabat, Jordan, as a terminal for Red Chinese weapons flown from Albania to Selima terrorists.

There is the PDFLP group beholden to George Habash, Arafat's chief rival in the PLO, who has close ties with Red China and has secretly visited Peking. Habash is a Palestine Arab who became a doctor in Lebanon and has made special arrangements with pro-Peking elements in Yugoslavia and Bulgaria to hospitalize the most seriously wounded terrorists.

There is the Syria-based group that killed in the Sudan's Khartoum our American Ambassador Cleo A. Noel Jr., and our attache; the ghastly Black September group founded by Munzeer Salaman Khalifah, a Palestine Arab formerly of Beirut; the pro-Chinese group of mercurial Syrian diplomat Ahmed Shukairy, who frequently vanishes to Peking.

Their horrible terrorists call their war against Israel the Sira'a ("The Historic Struggle") and preach it not in terms of years but for decades although, contrary to the impression of mutual hatred between Arabs and Jews, on the whole Arabs and Jews have lived together peacefully and successfully for centuries.

The Arabs traditionally consider Ishmael their ancestor; the Jews Isaac. Both were sons of Abraham. For centuries in Palestine any child—Jew or Arab—born in the same week as another automatically became a foster brother or sister of that other child.

It was the Arab peoples and the Moslem "church" that gave shelter and asylum to Jews fleeing Christian Europe's anti-Jew pogroms and did so throughout the centuries from the Spanish Inquisition through the horrors of what Hitler called the "final solution" of the Jewish question.

The Arab world teaches hatred of Zionists, not individual Jews. Its favorable reception of Secretary Kissinger—a Jew but not regarded as a Zionist—is an example. In contrast, the Arab world regards Israel as a western outpost sustained in Arab lands by American Jewry's Zionism, supported by the United States government because of the Jewish votes in key U.S. cities.

From the Arab viewpoint, the United States must consider whether the cost of the United States support for Israel is worth the economic and political losses throughout the Arab world.

Unfortunately, some of the world's problems do not have equitable solutions and this is one of them.

Ford launches war against crime

WASHINGTON (LENS)—The conventional wisdom is that any American politician who aspires to the presidency must be a credible statesman who can handle the country's foreign affairs with skill and confidence.

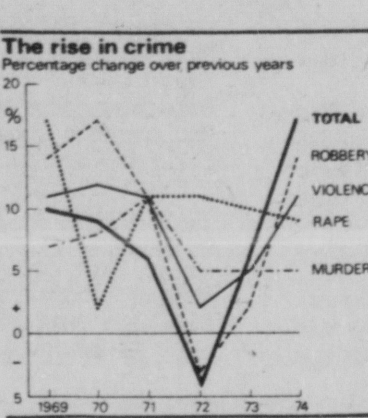

Or that he must have a rational and vigorous economic program which purports to guarantee prosperity and fulfillment for all.

Or that he must be identified with the problems and needs of one or more of the most important social groups—the farmers, the industrialists, the trade unionists, the minorities.

But as the bicentennial election year approaches, another qualification looms even larger than it has in the past several national campaigns: anyone who wants to be president needs to appear as a crime-fighter. So frightened, horrified and angry are most Americans at the increase in violent crime in recent years that they might sacrifice many of their other expectations to vote for a man who seemed likely to put a stop to it.

So it is that Gerald Ford has taken one of the more important steps toward convincing the people that he wants to be, and should be, elected to his very own four-year term in the White House: a message on crime. "Fear of crime" he said, "has caused people to rearrange their daily lives. They plan shopping and recreation during hours when they think the possibilities of violent attacks are lower. They avoid commercial areas and public transit. Frightened shopowners arm themselves and view customers with suspicion. The individual, political and social costs of crime cannot be ignored."

Long-awaited and much-touted in advance, Ford's message was a finely-crafted political document. It specifically avoided the phrase "law and order"—introduced as an emotional catch-all to the political vocabulary of the 1960s by George Wallace, the governor of Alabama, and later picked up by Richard Nixon—in order not to offend the blacks and liberals who have come to consider it as a centage of the profits on goods made by federal prisoners.

Perhaps the most controversial of the Ford suggestions is the establishment of mandatory minimum sentences for certain violent crimes and repeat offenders. Although the President claimed that such sentences have a powerful deterrent effect, some criminologists contend that the change would only clog the courts and prisons, increase "plea bargaining" that sends some innocent people to jail, and force acquittals by juries who might otherwise convict and recommend leniency.

Mandatory sentencing would also vastly reduce the discretion of judges, whom some believe to be the most sensitive link in the criminal justice system.

In serious fact, there is probably little that Ford or any other federal official can do directly to cut the crime rate, because, as the President himself noted, most serious and violent criminal offenses—murders, robberies, rapes and muggings and such—fall uniquely within the jurisdiction of state and local governments.

Recognizing that only on the local level can a fight against street crime be waged, Congress created the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in the late 1960s to channel federal funds to the states.

There is a widespread belief that, if nothing else, the federal government can set an example for the states with its anti-crime measures. One major problem is that the criminal law is too confusing and too abundant. Laws against homosexuality, drunkenness, prostitution, pornography and smoking marijuana, among others, remain on the books, mostly ignored but always available for random and discriminatory enforcement when police and prosecutors have no other means of demonstrating that they are doing a good job.

Many criminologists and social critics believe that if the authorities set clearer priorities and spent less time on such "victimless" crimes, they might make more progress. With that in mind, President Ford took the occasion of his crime message to urge enactment by Congress of the criminal justice reform act, which completely rewrites and supposedly rationalizes the federal criminal code.

In the works for almost a decade, the act would rank violations according to their seriousness and importance, and mete out punishment accordingly; where statutes have been changed or clouded by judicial interpretation, it would bring them up to date. (Debate over the act will rage long and loud, however, because it also contains controversial provisions intended to protect classified government information from disclosure through "leaks," and to make it harder for someone accused of a crime to invoke the insanity defense.)

Still, no one has come up with an ideal set of answers, and the United States seems to have a little understanding of its crime problem as ever. With the failure of the Johnson Administration's famous "War on Poverty," interest in the sociological roots of crime seems to have ebbed. Some cite the violence of television programs as a major cause, and others point to a general breakdown of discipline and moral values; one school of thought reaches back to the frontier ethic of American westward expansion and insists that this generated a violent society.

Even today, the federal government is not sure of the actual dimensions of the crime problem. Police departments cannot always be counted upon to report their statistics accurately and honestly—there was a mysterious drop in the figures just when Nixon, a favorite of the police, was running for re-election in 1972—and recent LEAA studies indicate that the true level of crime, as measured through the "victimization" felt by the public, may be four or five times as high as all the crime that is reported.

Things Dixon Talked About

10 YEARS AGO
As many as 4,000 people are expected to jam the Dixon Country Club Tuesday to see Jack Nicklaus, professional golfer, play an exhibition match. A representative for Nicklaus said that with the dry weather, the hard-hitting pro should be able to belt out consistent 300-yard drives at the Dixon course.

Ernie Banks had two hits and Ron Santo drove in the winning run as the National League All-Stars downed the American League 6-5 last night in the annual summer classic. Willie Mays and Juan Marichal were the MVP's.

50 YEARS AGO
A mock trial on evolution was held at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club today. A jury of 12 men was selected to hear the "cases" of two Dixon attorneys as they presented their own ideas on the historic trial just beginning in Dayton last week. The jury withheld its "verdict" in the case until next Tuesday—probably to avoid influencing the real trial.

Dixon is lauded in the current issue of Illinois Journal of Commerce, and is well-pictured in the article. Calling the Rock River "the Hudson of the West."

Free enterprise in the hospital room

By WILSON MacDOUGAL
The Standard advice given to patients considering which hospital to choose has been "profit-making no, nonprofit yes."

The concept was based on the idea that any hospital in business to make a profit couldn't, at the same time, also be in the business of taking the best possible care of patients.

Also, the proprietary, or profit-making hospitals, received a bad name because they were often owned by groups of physicians who also staffed them—a situation that could (and often did) lead to conflicts of interests that caused the patient to suffer both financially and medically.

Today, however, things have changed and there is an increasing amount of attention being shown toward investor-owned and operated hospitals. Ownership of such hospitals has changed from individuals and small groups to major corporations listed on the stock exchanges.

Adn according to Barron's business and financial weekly, these investor-owned hospitals are the fastest growing segment of non-government health care.

Everybody knows that hospitals of all sizes have been notorious for red tape, poor customer service, substandard food and inefficient use of capital. Because of the bureaucracies that developed in many large nonprofit hospitals, archaic financial and management systems often became more firmly entrenched instead of outmoded.

Coupled with booming operating costs the mismanagement has led to real problems. Hospital patients may pay more than $200 per day and the hospitals still lose money. Consumers wonder how they can pay more than twice what they would have to shell out for a luxury hotel, and still receive poor service and unpalatable meals.

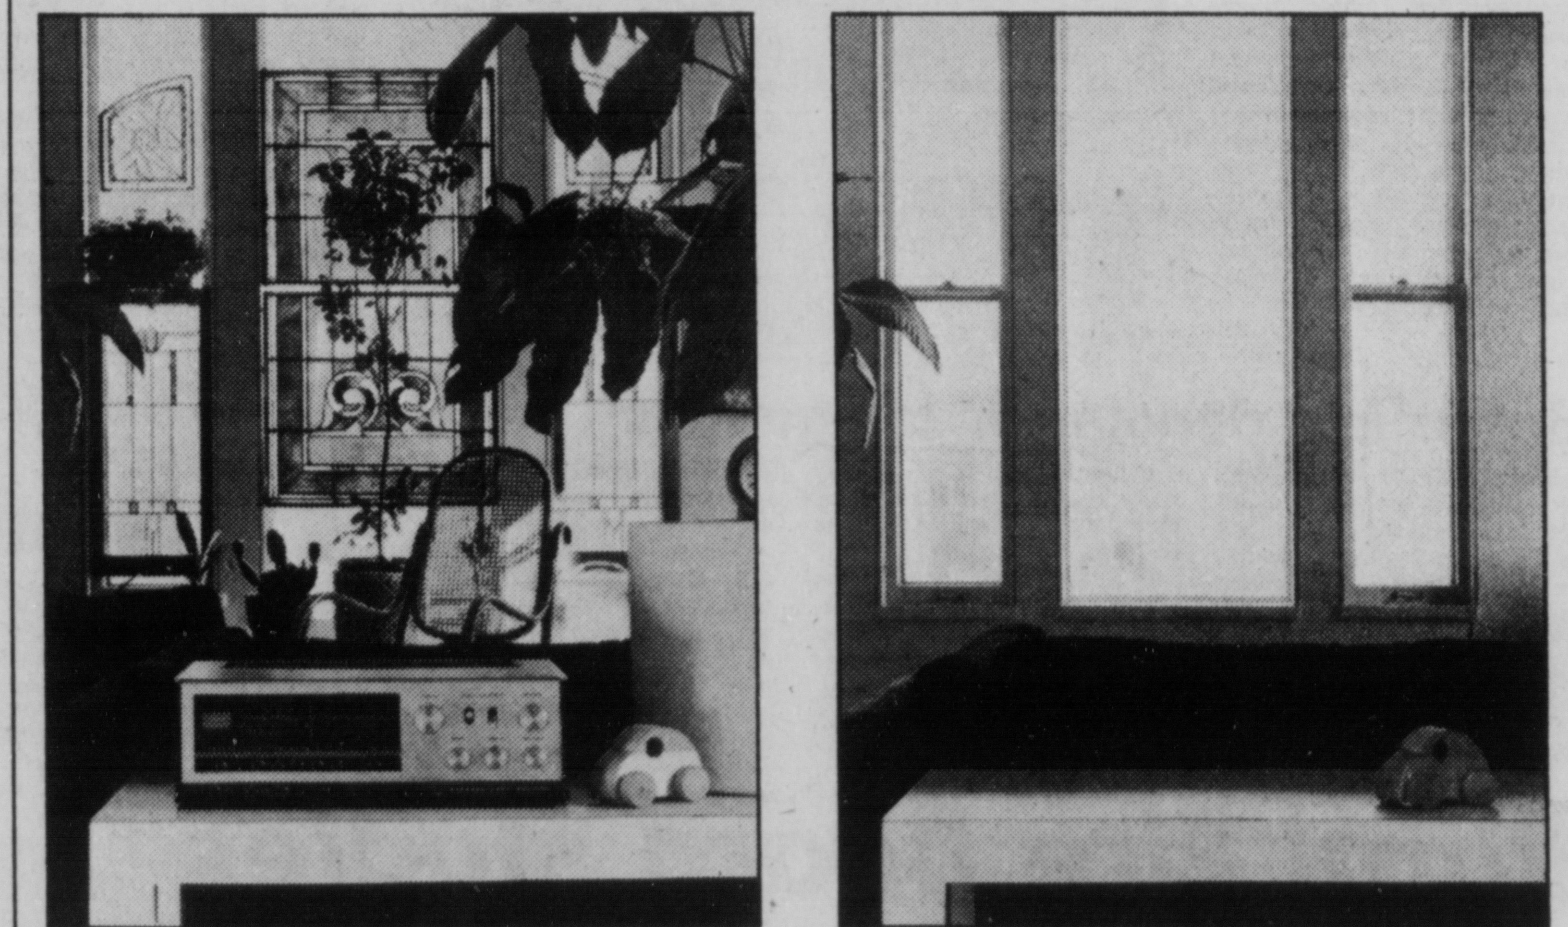

The idea behind the investor-owned and operated hospital groups is that the free enterprise system can return more satisfying patient care at lower costs.

For example, nine months after the Loma Linda (Calif.) Community Hospital had opened, $700,000 had been lost and the hospital was near bankruptcy.

But within only two months after the hospital's management was taken over by Hospital Affiliates, one of the largest hospital management firms, "the staff was cut, laboratory contracts renegotiated, three internal medicine specialists recruited, collections doubled from $100,000 to $200,000 and the hospital was operating in the black," Barron's notes.

The tide is turning, albeit slowly at first, and the day may soon come when all hospitals are either privately owned or professionally managed. When that time comes perhaps the patients will begin to receive the services they are entitled to.

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB— Would you please tell me what kind of pills are taken in place of B-12 shots for pernicious anemia?
 Do people with pernicious anemia ever die directly from it if they take medication faithfully? I know of a person who lived to be 80 years old and took pills since he was 40. He never had shots.
 I would appreciate it if you would enlighten me on this.
 DEAR READER— Solving pernicious anemia is one of the real triumphs of medicine in the 20th century. Many people died from it until recent times. Marie Curie, the famed discoverer of radium died with it in 1934. Death in these cases was from overwhelming and uncontrollable anemia, causing abnormal function of many organs but ending up causing heart failure. Vitamin B-12 is essential in the normal cell regeneration process. Our body constantly regenerates itself. The splitting or doubling of cells to do this depends in part on B-12.

 The anemia is prominent because we must manufacture so many new red blood cells each day. Your body manufactures about three million new red blood cells every second. Your red cells only last about 120 days. When you can't do this because of vitamin B-12 deficiency an anemia is one of the earlier manifestations of the disease. All other cells that must regenerate rapidly in the body are also affected.

 The lining of the small intestine is normally replaced every three days, and this replacement requires B-12. It is not surprising that digestive complaints are common in pernicious anemia.

Dogs also get pernicious anemia. A clever physician, Dr. George Whipple, from the University of Rochester, showed you could feed raw beef liver to dogs and cure them. Then two Harvard physicians, Drs. Richard Minot and William Murphy demonstrated that you could treat humans by feeding them liver. I suspect that is where the idea gained strength that you should have liver regularly. The truth is today you can get anything in liver from other sources.
 By 1929 it was realized that some cases of pernicious anemia occurred because an important enzyme manufactured by the stomach was missing. The enzyme was needed to enable the body to absorb vitamin B-12. The real problem people were having was an inability to absorb vitamin B-12, even when the diet contained adequate amounts. The large intake of liver worked because it provided so much B-12 that some of it, enough to solve the problem, got absorbed in spite of the loss of the vital stomach enzyme.

The poor ability to absorb B-12 is why shots have been used.

Miss Kap marries Carl Kraft

Joan Marie Kaps became the bride of Carl David Kraft Saturday, May 24, in St. Mary's Catholic Church, West Brooklyn.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fay E. Kaps, West Brooklyn. The groom is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Arthur Ludwig, Elgin.

The Rev. Louis Pesut performed the afternoon double wedding ceremony and nuptial Mass. Mrs. Lyle Morris was the organist, and Tim Setchell, Mendota, was the soloist. Bill Gehant, cousin of the bride, and Tim Gehant, cousin and Godchild of the bride, were servers.

Given in marriage by her brother, Robert Allen, the bride wore a traditional floor-length gown of imported silk organza with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, and bishop sleeves with deep cuffs. The skirt was a circular silhouette with a built-in chapel sweep. The gown was trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace and pearls.

A Juliette bonnet held a Cathedral-length mantilla edged in matching Alencon lace and pearls. She carried a clustered nosegay of fresh stephanotis, white daisies, Elegance carnations, miniature yellow roses and baby's breath. Her bouquet had cascades of white satin and lace streamers. The bride wore a single pearl drop necklace given to her by her brother.

Maid of honor was Miss Beverly Tschannen. Bridesmaids were Miss Jacquelyn Farrel, Mrs. Sharon Diederick, friends of the bride, and Miss Jean Keelen, cousin of the bride.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore identical modern floor-length gowns of Nile Green voile over taffeta.

Each gown featured an empire waistline and fitted bodice with a long-sleeve detachable jacket. The skirts were A-line silhouettes. The gowns were trimmed with Dainty Venice.

The bridesmaids carried clustered nosegays of daisies, miniature carnations, and fresh baby's breath in shades of pinks, yellows, greens and white. The bouquets were cascaded with showers of pink and yellow satin streamers.

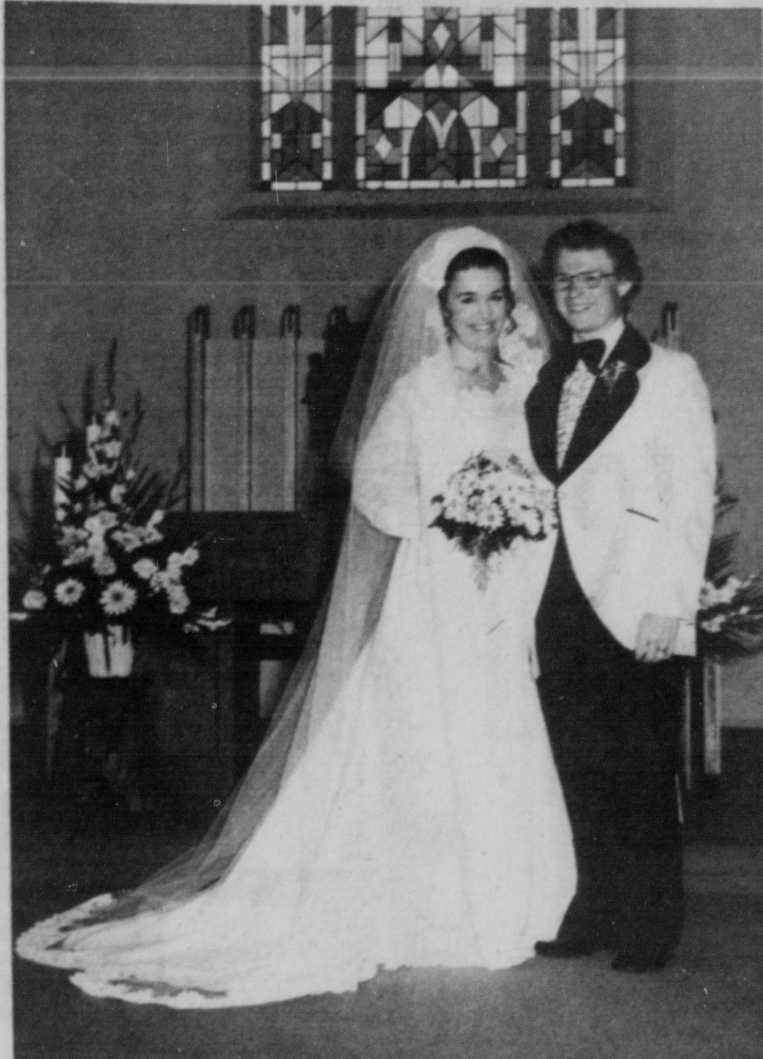

Best man was Michael Morning. Groomsmen were Ted Whittington, John Walters and Alex Kanter. Ushers were Barry Comin and Dan Pesut.

A reception for 300 guests was held at the Mendota Golf Club. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Danekas, friends of the Kaps family, were host and hostess. Music for dancing was provided by Jim Frizel and The Dreamers.

The couple departed on a one-week wedding trip through Lake of the Ozarks, Kansas City, and St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kraft now reside at 7854 Outlass Walk, LaCade Forest Garden Apts., Maplewood, Mo. 63143.

The bride graduated from Mendota High School in 1971 and from Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, in May of 1975. She recently accepted a nursing position with the Visiting Nurse Association of Greater St. Louis.

The bridegroom graduated from Larkin High School, Elgin, in 1970 and from Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, in 1974. This fall he will be entering his second year of law school at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

Divorced dads need not be Santas

By LEW and JOANNE KOCH

Would you be able to enjoy the circus every day of the week? That's what many divorced fathers expect their kids to do when they take them for that long summer visit. They plan a series of spectaculars which becomes a burden for father and child and creates a glamorized picture of what dad's life is really like.

William Simon, new director of the Urban Studies Institute at the University of Houston, and an expert on juveniles, advises divorced fathers who have their children during the summer to mix the pedestrian things, the quiet times, with the special events. That way, says Simon, daddy doesn't become the symbol of "vacation," making mommy seem like restraint and drudgery. Daddy doesn't assume that unreal pose as the playboy of the Western world, and the kids aren't forced into acting as though they are having a good time when they really want a peanut-butter sandwich and a game of "fish."

In terms of dating Simon suggests that the father consult his ex-wife before the visit about letting the child know what the realities are. "Once children have gotten past the fantasy of trying to reconcile daddy and mommy, they should be given a portrait of daddy's real life—one which includes the girl friend, if there is one." Also, Simon points out, your child can get bored with you—and you can get bored with your child, so a third party is another person to interact with.

Simon also believes in telling the kids, as they get older, that you have spent a lot of nights in bars or chasing women, just because you were lonely. This prevents them from getting an idealized version of your lifestyle, which they may want to hold up as the perfect image to emulate.

Chicago psychiatrist F. Theodore Reid reminds divorced fathers that they too may have a "snapshot version" of their child which has become obsolete during the long separation.

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Can you tell me how to get India ink out of white pants? I have tried alcohol, bleach and spray remover but nothing worked. Any suggestions?—LOUISE.

DEAR LOUISE—India ink stains are difficult to remove once they are dry. The U.S. Department of Agriculture suggests forcing water through the stain until all loose pigment is removed or the stain will spread during the removal process. Wash with detergent, several times if necessary, and then soak stain in warm suds containing one to four tablespoons ammonia to each quart of water. Dried stains will need an overnight soaking. An alternate method is to force the water through the stain, wet stain with ammonia and then work in the detergent. Rinse. Repeat if necessary. Good luck.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is the habit many doctors and nurses have (especially in hospitals) of calling patients by their first names. We are not personal friends. This is professional and it should be done on a professional basis. How would these nurses and doctors like being called "George" or "Sadie," etc.?—LAURA.

DEAR POLLY—Our family is great on "quickie" picnics. To make sure we can get ready in a hurry and still not forget anything I have devised a "Picnic Barrel." I bought a large plastic trash can; into it went everything for a picnic except the food. This includes paper plates and napkins, cups and thermos, knives, forks and spoons. Also, it includes some canned items like beans, spaghetti, shoestring potatoes and instant coffee plus a pot for regular coffee. The can is easily stored out of sight during the off-picnic months.—MRS. V. W. H.

DEAR POLLY—Those who have to watch the fat in their diets might like my Pointer. One of the truly good canned foods is soup. When a can is opened and there is a layer of fat on top (such as in chicken noodle, etc.) an easy way to get rid of this is to refrigerate the can until soup is completely cold, open, skim off the fat in one chunk and the soup is fat-free—or almost. I find this is a good idea.—MARGARET.

DEAR POLLY—When we decided to make our twin beds into a king-size bed I found the cost of king-size blankets was prohibitive. One store advertised a special sale on top-quality wool blankets so I bought three twin-size blankets for little more than the cost of one king-size. I split one of the twin-size blankets down the middle and sewed half to each of the other twin blankets, using the zigzag stitch on my machine. These blankets fit quite well and we have two king-size ones for little more than the regular cost of one such blanket.—D. L. J.

Peanut Macaroons

Good way to use extra egg whites.

1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flaked coconut
1 cup chopped cocktail peanuts

In a large mixing bowl stir together the sugar, flour and salt. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into sugar mixture with vanilla. Fold in coconut and peanuts. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until golden brown—15 minutes. Cool slightly; remove to wire racks and cool completely. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen.

50th anniversary celebration set

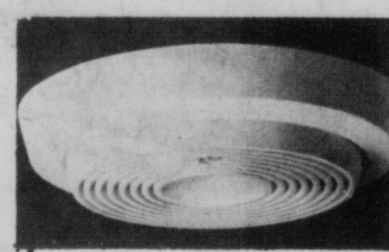

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Meyer, Ohio, will honor their Golden Wedding Anniversary with an open house Sunday, July 20, at the American Legion Hall, Marengo, 2-5 p.m. All friends and relatives are invited.

Luetta Lindemann and Herman Meyer were married July 22, 1925, in Dundee, and spent most of their married life farming in the Marengo area. He later retired from Ideal Industries, Sycamore, and moved to Ohio three years ago.

They are the parents of three children, Merlyn Meyer, Loves Park, Mrs. John (Beatrice) Cruise, Ohio, and Mrs. Merle (Karen) Seppelrick, Elburn. There are ten grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

MCLA to meet

The Marine Corps League Auxiliary will hold its monthly meeting July 15 at 8 p.m. at the Dixon VFW Club. A report on the Department Convention will be given by the Dixon Area Unit delegates.

SMOKE ALERT is the very newest in fire detection equipment. There is no other detector that can warn of a fire earlier than Smoke Alert. Because it is an early warning device it will not only help to lessen the amount of damage to your property, but it may save the lives of your family. No wires—it mounts on the surface with two screws and uses only one battery a year. SMOKE ALERT is U.L. listed and sells for $69.50. This is the most fire protection you can buy for the dollar. Fashion and Beauty Tips

Carefree
Look for a soft and carefree air in summer fashions when shopping. Pants are often front zippered with pouchy side front pockets and full legs.

Farmers' Market
Overalls cling to the outdoor fashion scene. The runaway fashion fabric of denim tops youthful choices, especially denim overalls with panel zippers in front and patched-on zipper pocket on the traditional bib top.

Burned Up
How many get carried away with their first days in the sun? Remember to build a tan without severe burning by sunning only 15 minutes the first few days of exposure. Add five minutes each day after about a week but no matter your tan caution always is best.

Showing Off
Skimpy skirts, rehearsal shorts and brief beachwear leave little to the imagination about the condition of one's legs. Keep legs clean and smooth and apply a soothing lotion after bathing to avoid that dry skin look that comes with more exposure to summer sun.

Dear Ann by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I hope all those people who think living together is as good as or better than getting married will read this letter—and think again. I am in such a trap and I don't know what to do.

G. and I decided we were in love. He didn't want to get married again after two divorces (one was a real mess), and it was OK with me. That was seven years ago.

Our five-year-old son starts school in the fall. His name is the same as mine. I will have to go to school with him and write on the registration blank, son of Miss A.L. and G.O. How will it look?

Whenever I mention marriage, G. says, "I couldn't think more of you if you were my legal wife. Let's not spoil our beautiful relationship by getting married. I did that twice."

He really treats me royally, Ann, and he's crazy about the boy. Tell me what to do.—No-Ring Woman

Dear Woman: Give G. 10 days to make up his mind. Either you get a ring on your finger and that piece of paper in your hand, or it's goodbye. And make it stick.

If he loves you and the boy as much as you say, he'll marry you. If not, it's better that you know it now.

Dear Ann Landers: My brother telephoned me last night, quite upset. He said he had just received a note from the principal of his son's school saying Jerry, who is 6 years old and in the first grade, is known for picking on the other kids and makes a general nuisance of himself. The principal warned him that if Jerry hasn't settled down by the time school starts in the fall, he will be expelled.

Is it possible to expel a first grader? How can Jerry be helped?—Concerned Uncle

Dear Uncle: A child whose anti-social behavior disrupts the classroom can be expelled no matter what the age.

Obviously your nephew needs counseling and so do his parents. Children who cannot get along with others and misbehave constantly are troubled. They seek attention outside the home because there are so few rewards in the home. It would be helpful if you could establish a close relationship with Jerry so when he feels the need for help he can holler "Uncle."

Dear Ann Landers: I am very fond of a young man who needs psychiatric help. He has moods that are frightening. Sometimes he becomes so depressed I'm afraid he might take his life. Other times he is euphoric beyond description.

His temper is unpredictable. I never know before we meet whether he is going to be cheerful and affectionate, or glum and rejecting.

I've begged him to seek professional help (he can well afford the best) but he refuses. What can I do?—Plenty Worried

Dear P.L.: Nothing. Unless a person recognizes the need and wants to avail himself of it, it's utterly hopeless. This goes for alcoholics, overeaters, chain-smokers—the whole kit and kaboodle. Nobody changes anybody. People have to change themselves. And it's the hardest work there is.

One short of game invites it

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "In the language of bids any bid of one less than game is a strong invitation to partner to go on to game. In most cases if you want to play it as a force, you won't get into trouble."

Oswald: "In standard American, South's two notrump rebid is just a strong invitation, but not quite a force. In Jacoby modern we go along with the best current practice and play it as a force to game, except if partner rebids to three of his minor suit, we can drop him there."

Jim: "South's opening bid is just about a jack above a minimum, but North's two over one response has promised at least ten points. South properly elects to rebid to two notrump."

Oswald: "Even if North does not play the two notrump bid as a force, he should go on to three notrump. You might as well try for something worthwhile rather than go after a part score."

Jim: "There is little to the play of the hand. South takes the first heart, tries the diamond finesse and wraps up

Despite troubles, Irving says he leads good life

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer
EAST HAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Clifford Irving, "Con Man of the Year" in 1972, strolls barefoot on the lawn overlooking a sunny inlet of this seaside resort. He affectionately nuzzles a pretty German woman friend and says: "Life is good. It always was."

Fine spirits for a man who a few days later declared himself bankrupt and for one still up to his neck in legal proceedings from the 1972 fracas that erupted from his fake autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes.

After serving 17 months in prison on charges of conspiracy and fraud, Irving, 44, moved here last July. He passes the time playing frenetic daily tennis, dining with friends and dabbling at pure fiction — a new novel he describes as an "erotic romance" about three women and man living in the Hamptons.

Clad in tennis shorts, Irving stretched his long legs on a tattered hassock in his rented cottage and reminisced about his caper.

"I'm sorry I got caught. And I'm sorry I involved my wife Edith, and I'm sorry I put my children into such jeopardy," said Irving, referring to emotional difficulties he says his young sons, Barnaby and Nedsky, now 5 and 7, experienced when both parents were in jail. "But I feel better and more experienced for having gone through it all. It was exciting. And there's a certain satisfaction from meeting difficulties, conquering them and coming out relatively whole."

When asked if he saw any parallels between his own futile attempts at a cover-up and Watergate, Irving quickly answered: "None at all. My motives were adventure, literature and money, not necessarily in that order. Their motives were based on the extension of a corrupt government."

He said he's tried to block out the whole experience of prison life, where, by his own estimation, he was a "troublemaker." He said he was placed in solitary confinement a few times and was accused of being the ringleader of a prisoner's strike at Danbury.

"I just don't think of all that ever. Sometimes I wonder where I was in 1973."

But he ruefully admits he's forced to think about the Hughes book all the time.

"The Autobiography of Howard Hughes" with the prefix "Auto" crossed out, was recently published in Spain. But Irving is being sued by Rosemont, a Hughes organization which owns the rights to Hughes' name, to stop publication of the book in the United States.

"It's an ongoing pain," said Irving.

He says he is nevertheless flattered that people on the street still recognize him and indicated a certain sentimental fondness for the book which friends say he is very anxious to see published.

Irving and his fourth wife, Edith, are separated. She lives on the Spanish Island of Ibiza with the two children. He doubts they will bother with divorce since neither wants to marry again. Irving has arranged for a showing of her paintings in Southampton this summer.

He was asked whether he was still in touch with Nina Van Pallandt, the blonde beauty who was instrumental in unraveling the hoax and whose sudden fame launched a short-lived singing and acting career.

"I don't know whatever happened to her, but I hear she came upon a patch of bad luck," he said. "I felt good when I heard that. I think she behaved in very poor taste."

Irving exudes that same cocky air that he mustered right up to the last days of his trial. But he says he was near tears when he heard himself described by the judge as "the biggest loser I know."

His book-about-the-book, "What Really Happened," failed to make money. He says legal fees are eating up whatever resources he has from a few lectures and magazine pieces.

A few days later, his attorneys filed an application for voluntary bankruptcy in Brooklyn Federal Court. They listed his assets at $410. His debts were a bit more than that: $55,884,248.01 to be exact.

The bulk of that debt, they said, represents a $55 million libel suit pending in U.S. District Court in Manhattan. The suit was filed by Fernand Legros, an artist who was the subject of an earlier and ironically-titled Irving book called "Fake."

His lawyers said Irving also owes a mere $344,899 to McGraw-Hill, who bought the fake Hughes book. The IRS wants $140,000 in income taxes. Then there's the $192,476 in legal fees.

Has all this turned life sour for Irving?

"It's fruitless to worry about the future," he says. "I have always been easy going and irresponsible and things have always worked out."

Hot weather takes toll on fishing across Illinois

By The Associated Press
If you're planning to bring that fish you catch home to cook for dinner, you might buy a TV dinner as a backup.

The summer fishing doldrums have set in in many parts of the state, and there's no guarantee you're going to come home with anything.

The fishing just isn't what it was a couple of months ago, and with the water temperature ranging from 85 to 88 degrees in most areas, you can expect the slowdown to continue.

Crappies are coming few and far between. Bass, too, are harder to find, and anglers who are catching them often do it late in the evening, at night, or early in the morning.

The fishing has slowed considerably at Lake Shelbyville, south of Decatur; Carlyle Lake, northwest of Centralia; and Rend Lake, near Benton, says Bill Fritz, Illinois reservoir biologist.

"They've been picking up a few small white bass...in Shelbyville and a few largemouth—but they're running small," said Fritz.

Bass have been spotty at Carlyle, with a few caught along rock areas and in the creek channels. Walleye fishing has also slowed down at Carlyle, where a few weeks ago it was extremely fast in the tailwaters.

"I got home from Canada to find out they caught more walleyes here than we did up there," said Fritz. "They were running from a pound to 2½ pounds."

A few crappie are being taken at Carlyle, largely in the old creek channels in about five feet of water. Channel catfish are also running slow, most being taken on trotline rigs.

But Fritz says excellent bluegill fishing still exists at Rend Lake.

"They aren't quite as large as last year when they were common from one-half to three-quarters pound, but they're catching them in the flooded timber and brush, especially in the Nason Point area," said Fritz.

Bullheads are spotty in the lake and there's not enough large-size northern pike being caught to make it worth fishing for them.

Fishing is only fair at Spring-Lake near Manito, and state ranger Chuck Oest blames hot weather for the slowdown.

"I've seen several bass taken early in the morning and late in the evening and also a few nice catches of channel cat and bullheads," he said.

Otherwise, you might consider warming up that TV dinner.

Communitistic fireworks saluting our Bicentennial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This time the rockets' red glare may be a product of Communist China.

Chinese rockets and firecrackers are being imported for bicentennial displays in 1976 as the United States celebrates its 200th birthday, the owner of the nation's largest fireworks supplier says.

Fireworks also will be supplied by England — America's foe in the War of 1812 when Francis Scott Key wrote the "Star-Spangled Banner" — as well as from France, Canada, Taiwan, Japan, Macao, Brazil and other South American countries, he adds.

"We're kind of in the unique position of celebrating our 200th anniversary — at least in part — with fireworks made in the world's biggest communitistic country," says Patrick Moriarty, owner of Pyrotechnics Inc. in suburban Anaheim.

"The capacity of the domestic manufacturers is not sufficient to handle the volume of business. It is getting more the case as we get closer to the bicentennial in 1976."

"The products the Chinese are making are superior to all others," he said. "Their colors and their materials are according to traditional practices."

People in the news

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is "definitely considering" moving from California to Bronxville, N.Y., according to U.S. News & World Report.

The magazine on Sunday quoted associates of the former president as saying he may "engage in projects with his close friend, multimillionaire Robert Abplanalp, who has a home near Bronxville."

Abplanalp and Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo are said to have urged Nixon to sell his San Clemente estate as a way of getting out of a financial bind, the magazine said.

WOODSTOCK, Va. (AP) — David Kennedy, 20, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has been charged with reckless driving, failing to have a driver's license in his possession and failing to have auto registration in the car.

Officers said Kennedy was stopped Saturday night near New Market, Va., after police observed a car speeding at 92 miles per hour on Interstate 81.

The speed limit is 55 m.p.h.

Kennedy was held briefly at the Shenandoah County jail until the registration of the car was checked. He was issued a summons and released pending a hearing in General District Court here July 25.

HONOLULU (AP) — The arrest of Richard Dean Holton, 40, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, has been announced by the agency.

The FBI said on Sunday that Holton surrendered to police on the northern end of the Hawaiian island of Maui. He was taken into custody and delivered to the FBI in Honolulu.

Holton is accused of robbing a Seattle bank in 1973. Following his arrest for the robbery he escaped from custody and was charged with the Nov. 1, 1974 slaying of a bartender during a holdup in Omaha, Neb.

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, has been secretly working and spending his own money to help youths who have been drifting into crime, the Sunday Telegraph said.

The newspaper said that the project has been encouraging and will be formally launched as "The Prince of Wales Scheme for Disadvantaged Young People."

MONTE URBASA, Spain (AP) — Audrey Hepburn says she has never quit acting and is not staging a comeback in her new film "Robin and Marian" about Robin Hood and Maid Marian.

Sitting on a stump overlooking a plain in Spain where the movie was being shot, she said her eight-year absence from movie-making was to find out what she wanted and who she was.

"After all, I had worked nearly all my life. I started teaching ballet when I was 13, and for years I was undergoing the discipline ballet demands. When you're in films, it means you're completely absorbed for three months or more. Your life isn't your own."

Miss Hepburn, 46, won an Oscar in 1953 for her performance in "Roman Holiday," and received Oscar nominations for her roles in "Sabrina," "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "The Nun's Story," and "Wait Until Dark."

Review board schedule set

The Lee County Board of Review will meet weekdays in the Courthouse from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 3 p.m. in the office of the supervisor of assessments. The deadline for filing of complaints with the office is July 31, according to Elmer Miller, supervisor of assessments.

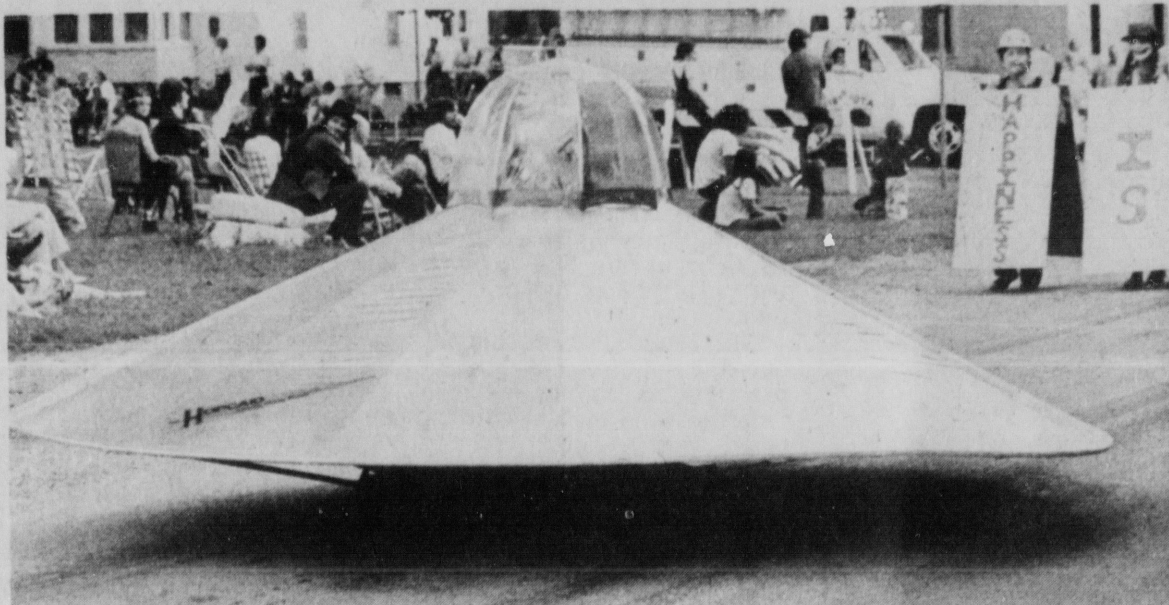

Gasoline theft is investigated

A theft of 280 gallons of gasoline was reported to Lee County Sheriff's Deputies Sunday.

Richard Vogler, rural Steward, told authorities that the gas was taken from his farm earlier this month. The theft is under investigation.

Containing a large Loyalist population and influenced by its many Quakers, Pennsylvania was late in joining the Revolutionary movement. With the aid of such leaders as John Dickinson and Thomas Mifflin, however, the colony signed the Declaration of Independence at the State House in Philadelphia and by September, 1776 had overthrown its proprietary government and adopted a new state constitution. The World Almanac notes that the two Continental Congresses (1774 and 1775-81) were held in Philadelphia.

DHS registration to start on July 28

Dixon High School students will register for the 1975-76 school year starting July 28. Special education students are to report to the high school cafeteria at 8:30 a.m. Seniors will register on July 28; juniors, July 29; sophomores, July 30, and freshmen on July 31.

Any student who left school during the school year 1974-75 and who was not in attendance during the pre-registration this last spring may register on Aug. 1.

Students will be receiving a registration packet in the mail. This packet contains registration material and will list the exact hours for registration for each class. Students are to come at the assigned time. Students should receive this mailing about Thursday or Friday. Students who do not receive packets by Saturday should contact the high school.

New students to Dixon, who have not already pre-registered, should plan to register on Aug. 1 between 8 a.m. and noon or 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Counselors, teachers, secretaries and administrators will be helping with registration during this week.

Students are to pay fees on registration days. These fees will vary but will be between $25 and $50 depending on what courses the student selects. Pictures will be taken for the ID card and yearbook.

If a student will not be available during the registration time, he should mail or bring his worksheet and course selection sheet to the high school office by July 25.

Walker slashes $330 million in funding

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker has chopped $330 million from general revenue spending authorized by the General Assembly for the fiscal year that began July 1.

Despite the cuts, which Walker said were needed to reduce his general fund spending request by 6 per cent, the total state budget stands at a record $10 billion, the governor said Sunday.

At a news conference, the governor said reductions are needed if the state is going to avoid a budget deficit this year or a tax increase.

Included in the $330 million was about $191 million in reductions announced earlier, in welfare and state aid to elementary and secondary education.

The governor also announced cuts of $205 million in appropriations from other funds — primarily special road projects approved by the General Assembly and paid for from the road fund.

Walker's budget request announced in March was $10.8 billion. The budget for fiscal 1975, which ended June 30, totaled $8.6 billion.

Highlights of the cuts announced Sunday include:

—$52 million from general revenue for colleges and universities.

—$174 million, mostly from the road fund, for the Department of Transportation.

—$10.2 million from the general revenue for the Department of Children and Family Services.

—$15 million from general revenue for the Department of Mental Health.

The governor did not announce specific areas in which cuts would be made, but acknowledged that the budget probably would not permit hiring additional employees as he originally requested.

Walker also said he was vetoing a measure which would have permitted him to impound up to 8 per cent of the general revenue fund appropriation for each department and agency and spend it later if the revenue picture improved. He said the bill was unconstitutional.

Also vetoed were seven bills which would have provided tax relief for individuals or corporations and provided more money for local governments.

The governor said the measures would have drained $46 million from the state treasury.

In an address to the General Assembly last month, Walker asked for a 6 per cent cut totaling some $325 million, in requested appropriations which would spend general revenue money.

He declared that anticipated tax revenues this year would not be as high as estimated in March because of the nationwide recession.

The legislature refused to make across-the-board cuts, calling it a "meat axe" approach, but did make cuts in some areas.

Walker said his vetoes reduced general revenue spending an average of 6 per cent in addition to cutting non-budgeted appropriations added on by the legislature.

"I told the legislature that families have tightened their belts and that government must do the same," Walker said. "I asked them to make a 6 per cent cut in spending. Instead, they overspent again."

On higher education, Walker said the approved appropriation totals 7.4 per cent more than fiscal 1975, despite the cuts.

Specific higher education reductions announced by Walker include $5.7 million for the Board of Governors, $4.7 million for the Board of Regents, $4.4 million for Southern Illinois University, $12.2 million for the University of Illinois and $9.3 million for community colleges.

The governor said his action Sunday virtually completes work on the fiscal 1976 budget. Still pending, however, is a $19 million appropriation to provide non-religious textbooks to students at public and private schools.

The legislature has scheduled a session beginning Oct. 22 to consider veto overrides.

Walker had been criticized for cuts of some $130 million announced last week in the budget for state aid to local school districts.

Dr. Joseph Cronin, state superintendent of education, said many school districts will suffer if the legislature lets the cuts stand.

STATEWIDE
FISH HATCHERY SCHEMATIC

Conservation chief announces plan for state fish hatchery

CHICAGO—State Conservation Director Tony Dean today announced plans to build a new $10-million state fish hatchery which will be one of the most technologically advanced facilities of its kind in the world when it is completed in 1979.

"The federal government has indicated it is curtailing its fish stocking program, and the states will have to fill the gap," said Dean. "The new hatchery will provide our fish-stocking program with more than 26 million young fish annually, enough to meet the projected demands of Illinois fishermen through the year 2000." Dean also called the hatchery the largest single construction development project in the department's history.

The new hatchery will be built on a 160-acre site presently owned by the Department of Conservation about 10 miles east of Morton along the Mackinaw River in Tazewell County. The site was selected because of its location in the central part of the state near a sufficient fresh-water supply.

The new hatchery will be the first to combine production capabilities for both warm and cold-water fish species. New techniques of intensive fish culture will be used, including forced growth in raceways, for some species; others will be raised in ponds using traditional methods.

Eventually all species will be raised by intensive methods as research progresses, Dean said. Salmonids, pike, bass, sunfish and catfish will be among the main species to be reared at the hatchery in various sizes and quantities.

The hatchery is designed to save energy. The water will be heated partly by solar energy through use of a specially designed exterior pond, Dean said. The facilities will be built on a slightly graded hillside so gravitational force can aid water circulation.

The hatchery will require a maximum of 7,500 gallons of water per minute, said Dean. An extremely rich underground water supply is available, and tapping of this source will not adversely affect other nearby wells. The water will be recycled, processed through a pollution control system, and discharged into the Mackinaw River.

The environmental engineering firm of Kramer, Chin and Mayo, Seattle, Wash., has completed preliminary work on the new hatchery, under direction of the Department and Louis R. Silverman, chairman of the State Capital Development Board.

The state has two small outdated fish hatcheries at present, which will eventually be phased out of operation, Dean said. They may be used as research facilities, or as local parks.

Hearings planned on state's energy policy

The Illinois Energy Resources Commission will scour the state summer and fall in search of public energy concerns at a series of public hearings.

Chairman Adeline J. Geo-Karis, Republican state representative, 31st District, stated that the hearings are part of a comprehensive plan by the commission to finalize a state-wide energy policy by next year. The project also calls for a survey of state agencies, committees and commissions on their energy views and goals, and a comprehensive review of current and proposed energy legislation. One legislative member from the Illinois Energy Resources Commission will be selected to chair each of the public hearings. First public hearing, at Carbondale, will be held July 22. Commission members hope to assess public concerns about coal, solar energy, oil, nuclear power, natural gas and hydro power before proceeding with other parts of the comprehensive energy policy study.

Also under discussion at the public hearings will be the role of energy users—industrial, commercial, residential and transportation—in the state's comprehensive energy policy.

The Illinois Energy Resources Commission was created by statute last year to parcel out $70 million in coal development bonds for Illinois projects. The group also has a broad mandate to coordinate and oversee state energy policies—and to hatch its own state energy plan. The four months of hearings held throughout the state represent a commission effort to present a well-rounded energy picture to the General Assembly next Spring. The commission's intensive energy study is expected to inspire specific proposals for energy legislation.

Tentative schedule for public hearings is: July 22, Carbondale; July 29, Peoria; Aug. 19, Quincy; Aug. 26, Danville; Sept. 9, East St. Louis; Sept. 16, Rock Island-Moline; Sept. 23, Rockford; Sept. 30, Springfield; Oct. 7, Chicago.

Specific locations and times for the public hearings will be announced prior to the meetings. All public hearings will be announced in local newspapers.

Rep. Geo-Karis has named Jan. 1, 1977, as the target date for completing the comprehensive energy report. She adds that the report, which will be put together with input from the executive branch and from state agencies, industry and other groups, will represent a cooperative effort to draw up a usable, state-wide energy policy.

As part of the comprehensive study, Illinois Energy Resources Commission Chairman Geo-Karis has scheduled three study panels on energy in conjunction with Dr. James P. Hartnett, a commission member and director of the University of Illinois Energy Resource Center, Chicago Circle Campus.

Each panel will be charged with preparing a report on its respective energy area to include in the state-wide energy policy report. The three panels—one on coal and other fossil fuels, one on solar energy, solid wastes, corn alcohol fuel, and one on solid wastes and biomass study—will include persons familiar with the energy area being discussed.

Rockford driver given ticket

ROCHELLE—Andres Fronco, Rockford, was ticketed by Rochelle Police for improper overtaking on the right, following a two-car collision on U.S. 51 South.

Fronco was charged after his car struck an auto operated by George Thodds, 49, East Moline. According to reports, both vehicles were northbound in slow traffic when the Fronco car pulled onto the shoulder of the road, continuing northbound until turning into a private drive. The Thodds' auto was at the private drive and was also attempting a right turn.

Antiques stolen

A theft from the residence of Dennis Considine, 222 S. Ottawa Ave., has been reported to Dixon Police. Stolen were eight antique crocks and a large antique jug valued at $100.

Pioneer Days events at Amboy

There will be a display of antique farm machinery in front of the Amboy depot in Amboy on Saturday. Also, a miniature steam train and horse-drawn wagon will be giving rides.

A Kid's Parade will start at 1 p.m. in front of the Amboy Library. Prizes will be awarded for the most appropriate dress and theme for the Pioneer Days. There will be several age categories for which prizes will be given.

The official Bicentennial ceremony will be held at 3 p.m. in front of the Amboy depot. A memorial flagpole will be dedicated at that time.

All-Star baseball game will be held at 4 p.m. at the Amboy Junior High Athletic Field. The Greater DeKalb Footstomper's Band will be playing throughout the afternoon in the downtown Amboy area.

A pork chop and chicken barbecue will be held from 4-8 p.m. south of the Amboy depot in downtown Amboy. In case of rain, it will be held at the Amboy fire station.

Rochelle pet show planned

ROCHELLE—It's pet show time again, with the Flag Township Library and the Flag-Rochelle Park District sponsoring the annual event on July 22.

The show will be held at the "Prairie" located between Fifth and Sixth Avenue on 10th Street.

Animals come in all shapes and sizes, with a special category for stuffed animals. Dogs, cats and any animal that is considered a pet by the child exhibiting, is welcome to the show.

Registration begins at 9:30 a.m., with the showing of the animals at 10 a.m.

Judges have not been named as yet, but each exhibitor will be awarded a ribbon.

Petunia meeting

The Board of Directors of the Petunia Festival will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Dixon Chamber of Commerce. President John Kuster is expected to have a preliminary report on the finances of the recent festival.

Miss Illinois to appear in Tampico

TAMPICO—Miss Illinois, Jean Celeste Ahern, will arrive in Tampico for the Centennial on Wednesday for "Young America Day."

Miss Illinois will also be performing on stage before the pageant "The Way We Were" in the evening. Jean is 21 and lives in Hinsdale. Miss Illinois attends the University of Illinois, Champaign, where she is majoring in graphic arts. Jean has studied ballet and has danced with Canada's Royal Winnipeg Ballet and Harkness Ballet (New York City). Jean has been a professional model and has appeared in many television commercials. She would like very much to combine a career in arts and theater.

The Centennial historical pageant "The Way We Were" is scheduled for Wednesday through Saturday at the Tampico High School football field at 9 each evening.

Nearly 300 Tampico area people are appearing in the cast depicting the many interesting historical characters who have built the village of Tampico.

The spectacular opens with the presentation of the Centennial Queen and her court, with a color guard of youth of the Tampico area. The first citizens of the area, the Indians, appear and present a wedding ritual dance with 24 maiden dancers.

A wagon train appears and takes over the area. Chores befitting to such a traveling band of settlers are performed before the audience. To relax the group a Virginia reel is performed, to add color and human interest to the scene. Many of the community's first families are mentioned as they perform their duties just as it could have happened a hundred years ago.

In the religious heritage scene a special tribute is performed for all the churches of the community, listing their individual founding dates in the community of Tampico.

As a tribute to the early education strides of Tampico, a scene from the early school is presented. A little play about the good points of Tampico is presented, with a special twist for comic interest.

The war between the States is presented, with a waltz scene presenting the family ties and the glory of the time before the war.

A special tribute is presented to Abraham Lincoln as the great emancipator is authentically presented.

The first incorporation election for the village of Tampico is reenacted, along with the presentation of the first tax program of the community. Scenes at the first post office are also included in the era.

Special news items about Tampico from the Tampico Tornado, the community newspaper, are graphically presented. Activities of the Gay Nineties era add interest to the production. This includes an old-fashioned church picnic, a Gay Nineties bathing beauty contest, and advent of the auto in town which was invented by a local Tampico inventor, who created the first rotary motor.

The first railroad that was pulled through Tampico, on orders from the town board, will also be depicted nightly in the production.

The story of Jacob Hartsook, the man with the indian rubber stomach, is also included in the fun of the production.

The period of the Roaring 20s, the Fabulous 40s, and the youth of the present are all featured in the 90-minute production. The spectacular "The Way We Were" is a John B. Rogers Production, of Fostoria, Ohio, written and directed by R. H. Rockhold of that company.

The launching of the moon rocket should be one of the most exciting episodes of the entire production, according to Rockhold. This should send shivers down the backs of all those who witness the big pageant nightly.

Watson takes British Open

By GEOFFREY MILLER
AP Sports Writer
CARNOSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Any golfer who birdies Carnoustie's feared par-five 14th can feel pleased with himself.

Jack Newton of Australia did it in Sunday's playoff for the British Open. But Tom Watson went him one better. He eagled it.

Watson, who was earning a history of choking in major tournaments, went on to win the crown and he said his eagle chip at the 14th was the stroke that counted the most toward the title.

"I hit a good wood for my second shot, and it landed in short grass just off the green, about 30 feet from the pin," Watson said. "I took a chipping wedge for my third shot and it ended in the hole."

Watson went on to a one-under-par 71 over the 7,065-yard, par-72 course and edged Newton by one stroke. It was the fourth time in five days that Watson had shattered par on the famous course, and it helped ease bitter memories of two consecutive U.S. Opens when he blew chances to win.

The 488-yard 14th, where the playoff turned in Watson's favor, is called "the spectacles" because two big round bunkers peer out in front of the green. Watson steered past the bunkers with his second shot but missed the green. The chip, however, was one of the outstanding shots of a memorable tournament.

Carnoustie is a dragon when the wind comes up, but for the first three days there was scarcely a breath of wind. Watson had scores of 71, 67 and 69 on the first three rounds; Newton shot 69, 71 and a course-record 65.

Then a westerly wind came up, and in the fourth round, the title was up for grabs as player after player bowed in the stiff breeze. Watson made 72 and Newton 74. The scores put the two 25-year-olds even at 279, one stroke ahead of Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Neil Coles, and they went to an 18-hole playoff.

Sunday the wind blew again, but from the east.

"I guess we saw Carnoustie in different conditions," Watson said. "But I know we haven't had real Carnoustie weather. I expected it to blow 100 miles per hour."

Watson won the title, the first major victory in nearly four years as a pro, along with the $16,500 first prize. Newton owned the course record and $13,200 as runner-up.

Matlack probable for NL

Vida Blue to start for AL

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The last time the American League won an All-Star Game was in 1971 when rookie Vida Blue was the starting and winning pitcher.

Blue, who went on to win the Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards that year, is being counted on to help get the American League back on the winning track Tuesday night at the 46th All-Star Game at County Stadium.

AL Manager Alvin Dark, who also manages Blue with the world champion Oakland A's, last week named the 25-year-old left-hander to oppose the National League, winner of 11 of the last 12 of these mid-season classics.

Walter Alston, manager of the National League, also was expected to choose a southpaw starting pitcher—John Matlack of the New York Mets at today's news conference to give the starting lineups. Matlack last pitched Friday and is known to be highly regarded by Alston, whose own Andy Messersmith—pitched Sunday—and Don Sutton—groin injury—are ready.

While Blue has a 12-7 record with a 3.10 earned run average this year, Matlack is 10-7 with a 3.54 ERA, highest of all All-Star pitchers.

When Blue gained the All-Star victory in 1971 despite giving up three runs in three innings, he got three two-run homers in a 6-4 victory. Harmon Killebrew, Frank Robinson and Reggie Jackson smashed those homers for the AL. Only Jackson, who put his blast over the roof at Detroit, in a pinch-hit effort, is a member of this year's AL All-Stars.

He finished second in the voting for an outfield berth in a nationwide voting of fans. Bobby Bonds of the New York Yankees, an All-Star in 1971 and 1973 for the National League, and Joe Rudi of Oakland are the junior circuit's other outfield starters.

Two other Oakland players, first baseman Gene Tenace and shortstop Bert Campaneris, also will be in the starting lineup. The Yankees have two other starters in catcher Thurman Munson and third baseman Graig Nettles. Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, the AL's leading hitter and winner of three straight AL batting crowns, is the second baseman.

Alston will have three of his Dodgers in the starting lineup—first baseman Steve Garvey, MVP of the 1974 All-Star game, third baseman Ron Cey and outfielder Jimmy Wynn.

Three Cincinnati Reds are on the starting squad, catcher Johnny Bench, second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Dave Concepcion and outfielder Pete Rose. Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals is the other outfielder.

Added to the AL reserve squad Sunday was infielder Toby Harrah of Texas, who replaces the injured Jorge Orta of the Chicago White Sox.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, will throw out the first ball.

Maltbie claims victory

By Gordon Hanson
AP Sports Writer
MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — "One of things I've been concerned about is my consistency," said rookie golfer Roger Maltbie. "For the last few months I seemed to have lost it."

Wherever it had been, the first-year tour pro found it Sunday to come from seven strokes off the pace set by leader Dave Eichelberger to claim the $75,000 Quad Cities Open.

Maltbie, 24, who joined the Professional Golf Association last November, had a four-round total of 275, nine under par, to win $15,000. Eichelberger finished at 276.

Maltbie, whose last tournament victory was the 1971 Milwaukee Open, moved to a five-stroke lead Friday and was ahead by three starting Sunday's round.

"I'm having trouble getting my confidence back," the disappointed Eichelberger said afterward. "I've played so bad for two years. Several years ago, when I was in contention about five times, I felt great. Now all of a sudden when I was in there, I felt nervous and that hurt me."

Maltbie immediately gained two strokes on the 510-yard No. 1 hole when he scored an eagle and Eichelberger bogeyed.

After the first nine holes, Eichelberger, Maltbie, Howard Twitty Jr., and Terry Dill were tied for the lead with six under totals of 272.

But in an ever changing race during the rain-delayed tournament, Mark Hayes came on with a 69 to place third with 277, two strokes off the pace. Gary McCord (70) followed at 278, and Homero Blancas (69), Dill (72) and Twitty (72) were tied at 279.

"Being a tournament winner—that's the big thing," the exultant Maltbie said, noting "there are three different categories" when tournament pairings are made. He said rookies are matched against rookies, the better players as determined by their current money winnings are paired with each other, as are tournament victors.

Maltbie quipped that he just recently joined the list of the top 100 money winners and was "getting a little better class of friends."

Now, as a tournament winner, he said: "Who knows? I may get Jack Nicklaus next week."

Included in the field of 147 were golfers such as Sam Snead, Doug Sanders, Dave Hill, Tony Jacklin and Dave Stockton.

Snead was in contention after rounds of 69-68. But he soared to 77 Saturday before returning with another 68 Sunday to finish two under at 282.

Archers lose two

ROCKFORD — The Dixon Archers were limited to eight hits total and dropped both ends of a semi-pro baseball doubleheader to the Blackhawks, here, Saturday. Ted Marinelli scattered three Archers hits in the opener to post a 3-0 blanking.

Gary Oswalt had two hits for Dixon, with Dan Letterman contributing the other. The Blackhawks got eight safeties off Joe Richter, including a double by Marinelli. In the nightcap, the score was knotted in the fifth when Archers hurler Kurt Peterson pulled a back muscle.

Rockford then utilized seven walks to score five times and put away the victory, 10-5, against relief pitching. The Blackhawks ended with six hits, while the Archers had seven, including two apiece by Dan Willard and Tom Butler.

The Archers travel to Beloit tonight and then return home to face Belvidere on Friday.

Seventeen major-college coaches will be new on the job this season. Nine of them will be in their first season as a head coach at any four-year college—Kansas' Bud Moore, Kent State's Dennis Fitzgerald, Marshall's Frank Ellwood, Memphis State's Richard Williamson, Miami (Fla.)'s Carl Selmer, Southern Mississippi's Bobby Collins, Villanova's Dick Bedesem, Western Michigan's Elliot Uzelac, and Wyoming's Fred Akers. All nine where assistants at major colleges in 1974. Of the other eight, the two with the most major-college head-coaching experience are Notre Dame's Dan Devine, 119-41-8 for 16 seasons at Missouri and Arizona State, and South Carolina's Jim Carlen, who's 62-33-5 for nine seasons at Texas Tech and West Virginia.

Ken Detweiler and Roger Loffgren tied for first place in the Merle Drew Memorial Golf Tournament at the Dixon Country Club over the weekend. Detweiler and Loffgren both had rounds of 73-73, along with a 6 handicap, to finish at 134 total.

A total of 44 players competed in the 36-hole tournament. Taking second was Kim Krahenbuhl with a 78-73 along with a handicap of 7 for a 137. Jim Stewart was third with 76-77, with an 8 handicap for a 137.

Fourth was Ron Hodapp with a 94-89 and 23 handicap for a 137. An 84-78 with 12 handicap for a 138 earned Ernest Ward fifth, while Earl Slagle took sixth with 81-87, with 15 handicap for 138. Seventh was Bud Harn with 74-81, with 8 handicap for 139, while Robert Coakley took eighth with 86-85 and 16 handicap for 139.

Ninth was Walter Knack with 88-93 and a 21 handicap for a 139. Low handicap was utilized to break ties.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. John Selgestad carded a 62 to capture first place in the Husband and Wife Best Ball Two-some championship. Second at 63 were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hansen, while third at 64 was the twosome of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Utley.

Fourth at 65 were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kested and fifth at 66 were Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Williamson. Mr. and Mrs. John Jul took sixth with a 67, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hewes at 67 and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schotka at 67.

Winds lose 34-23

CHICAGO (AP) — "We started out just playing too cautiously," Coach Babe Parilli said after his Chicago Winds' 34-23 loss to the Jacksonville Express.

"When you get right down to it," said Parilli, "we were out-hit."

Winds' line coach Stew Barber said the World Football League team had other problems during its Saturday exhibition game.

"We just weren't getting off the ball quickly at all," Barber said. "I don't know if it was the slippery field or not."

The Express' Tommy Reamon carried the ball 18 times for 103 yards and crossed the goal line three times to lead his team to victory.

Only 2,446 fans turned out to see Reamon break a 17-16 game open with a 59-yard fourth quarter effort.

The Express marched 78 yards in eight plays at the start of the fourth quarter to boost its lead to 24-16. Reamon sprinted the final 15 yards for the score.

Charlie Durkee booted a two-point, 37-yard field goal to make it 26-16. Then Steve Foley intercepted a Winds pass on the Chicago 47 yard line, returning it to the 28. Reamon broke a tackle five plays later and ran two yards for the final touchdown.

Jacksonville scored first with a 53-yard return on a Fletcher Smith interception in the first quarter and a one-yard Reamon run at the start of the second.

Behind 14-0, the Winds got back in the game with a 21-yard Pete Beathard to John Gilliam touchdown pass near the end of the second period and a five-yard touchdown run by Mark Kellar in the third.

Miss Mann carried a shaky one-stroke lead into her final four holes today over Jan Ferraris. The last three three-somes were forced to quit because of darkness.

However, the rest of the field finished. Most of the players headed for Atlantic City Country Club, the site of the U.S. Women's Open this week.

Miss Mann was seven under par and Miss Ferraris six under with only one hole left, when they resumed play at the spot of their interruption.

Of the others still playing, Laura Baugh, Jane Blalock and Sandra Haynie were all four under. Judy Rankin, Pam Higgins and Murle Breer three under.

The clubhouse leader was Carol Jo Skala, the wife of a Sacramento surgeon. She sloshed to a two-under-par 70 Sunday, good for a five-under-par 54-hole total of 211.

One shot back at 212 came JoAnne Carner and Australian Penny Pulz. Both closed with 70s.

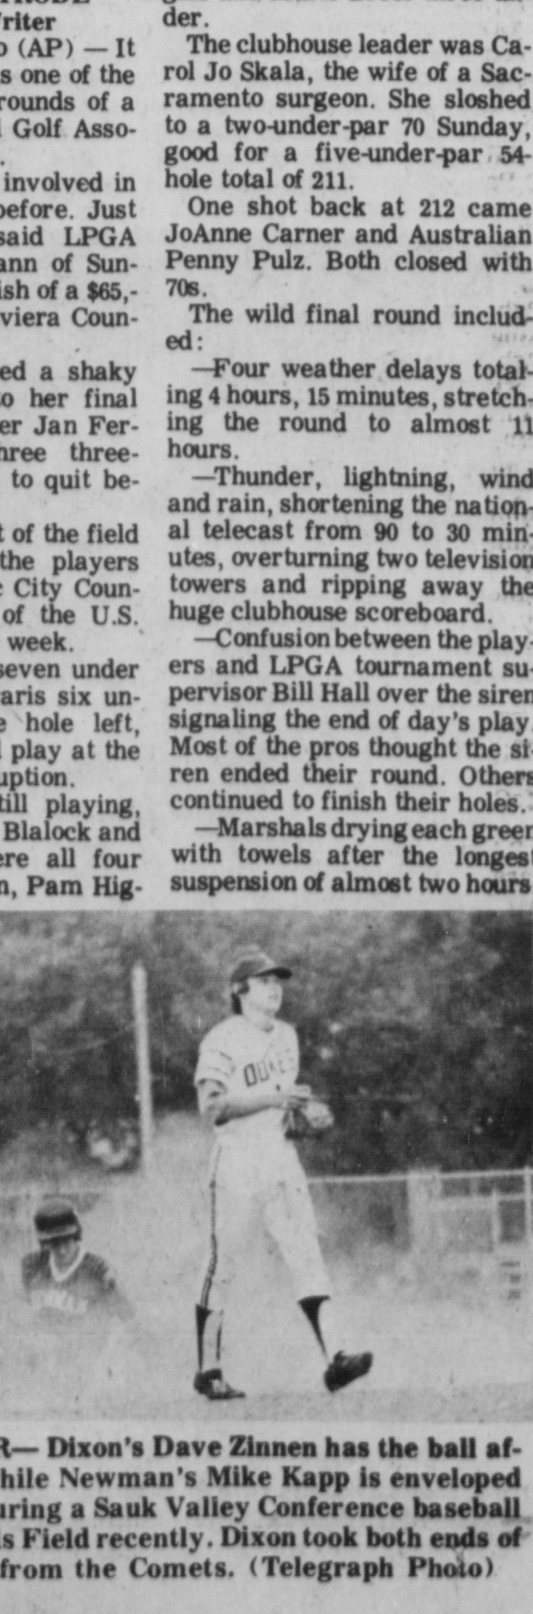

The wild final round included:

—Four weather delays totaling 4 hours, 15 minutes, stretching the round to almost 11 hours.

—Thunder, lightning, wind and rain, shortening the national telecast from 90 to 30 minutes, overturning two television towers and ripping away the huge clubhouse scoreboard.

—Confusion between the players and LPGA tournament supervisor Bill Hall over the siren signaling the end of day's play. Most of the pros thought the siren ended their round. Others continued to finish their holes.

—Marshals drying each green with towels after the longest suspension of almost two hours.

Montefusco halts Cubs win streak

By JOE MOOSHIL
 AP Sports Writer
 CHICAGO (AP) — John (The Count) Montefusco still doesn't have his rhythm and couldn't get his slider over the plate Sunday. If he had, he might have had both a shutout and a complete game. As it was, the 25-year-old righthander hurled the San Francisco Giants to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs although he needed help from Charlie Williams in the eighth.

"I guess I got tired in the eighth," said Montefusco. "I had trouble getting my slider over the plate so I had to go mostly with fast balls, especially when I fell behind the hitters which was most of the game."

Still, Montefusco had a two-hits shutout going into the eighth inning when he got rapped for singles by Jose Cardenal, Jerry Morales and Rick Monday. That spoiled his shutout and brought on Charlie Williams who got the final two outs in the eighth and yielded a harm-

41st in last 50 games Reds win again

By BRUCE LOWITT
 AP Sports Writer
 The National League deserves a break today. It's got one. The Cincinnati Reds aren't playing.

The Reds have been acting like starving men in a hamburger joint — eating up everything in sight. If a few days of enforced idleness can bring a halt to Cincinnati's momentum, then the All-Star break is the best thing that could've happened to the other 11 teams.

But Pete Rose thinks the three-day absence from the diamond will make the Reds' hearts grow even fonder of beating everyone else.

"We've always been a good second-half team," he said. "I don't think we'll do anything but get better."

Rose's bases-loaded two-run single capped a four-run seventh inning Sunday that propelled the Reds to their 10th consecutive victory, a 5-3 triumph over the New York Mets.

The victory, the Reds' 41st in their last 50 games, also widened their West Division lead to a mind-boggling 12½ games over Los Angeles, which was beaten 2-1 by St. Louis. In the rest of the league, Pittsburgh lost 7-5 to San Diego but retained its 6½-game East Division edge over Philadelphia, which fell 9-5 to Houston. Atlanta beat Montreal 5-4 in 14 innings and San Francisco defeated Chicago 4-1.

Tom Seaver was cruising along with a 3-0 lead and a two-hitter, a pair of Rose singles, before the Reds woke up. Joe Morgan walked, stole second and scored on Dan Driessen's double. Cesar Geronimo and Dave Concepcion then singled for another run and pinch-hitter Terry Crowley drew a walk, loading the bases.

That brought Rose to the plate and Rick Baldwin out of the bullpen. Rose greeted Baldwin with a clean line-drive single to center that put the Reds on top.

Cardinals 2, Dodgers 1
 For the second straight time the Dodgers lost 2-1 to the Cards. And for the second straight time, Dave Lopes' homer produced the Dodgers' lone run. St. Louis' winner came on Bake McBride's triple and Reggie Smith's single off Mike Marshall in the bottom of the ninth.

Padres 7, Pirates 5
 Hector Torres' two-run double in a three-run fifth helped the Padres down Pittsburgh. Pirates' third baseman Richie Hebner also helped with two errors in the inning.

Astros 9, Phillies 5
 Cliff Johnson's two-run triple gave Houston a first-inning lead, the Phils scored four in the third, then Roger Metzger's single, Rob Andrews' double, Wilbur Howard's triple and Greg Gross' single in the fourth put the Astros on top to stay.

Braves 5, Expos 4
 Atlanta's Darrell Evans drew a one-out walk in the 14th inning against Montreal and took off on Mike Lum's single to right. Evans beat the throw to third and Lum went to second on the play.

And when Larry Parrish threw to Pete Mackanin at second, Evans jumped up and beat the throw home.

American League
 Wave bye-bye to the Oakland A's.

Those perennial world champions are not only first in the American League West at the All-Star break — but they're first by a whopping 8½ games. "The pressure is on the other teams now," said Oakland's Bill North after the A's beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 Sunday and moved further ahead of the pack.

Traditionally, the team ahead by the All-Star game winds up winner of its division.

The second-place Kansas City Royals dropped another notch behind the A's by losing an 8-4 decision to the Detroit Tigers. The Boston Red Sox, meanwhile, improved their lead in the American League East to 4½ games by whipping the Texas Rangers 7-5.

Billy Williams' two-run double capped a three-run second inning and Ken Holtzman won his fifth straight game and 11th of the season as Oakland edged Baltimore. Holtzman needed relief help from Jim Todd and Rollie Fingers after Brooks Robinson hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning, cutting Oakland's lead to one run.

The A's scored all their runs off Ross Grimsley, 5-11, who lasted only 1-2-3 innings.

Wood wins seventh game

By MIKE O'BRIEN
 AP Sports Writer
 MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Brewer hitters started their All-Star vacation a day early, but it wasn't that they were playing hooky.

Wilbur Wood had more than a little to do with it.

"Nobody in baseball has done anything against Wilbur Wood when he has a good day. And he had a good day today," Brewer Manager Del Crandall said.

Wood, 2-10 until he beat the Brewers June 10, boosted his record to 7-13 by holding them to three hits Sunday. Nyls Nyman, batting .186 going in, hit a two-run single in a four-run fourth inning and doubled and scored in the sixth as the Chicago White Sox won 5-0.

The defeat dropped Milwaukee to third place in the American League East, 4½ games behind Boston and .006 back of the New York Yankees.

Wood, who has won 20 or more games each of the previous four seasons, became the first Sox pitcher to hurl a complete game shutout this year. Chicago's only other shutout came May 9 when Jim Kaat, Rich Gossage and Terry Forster combined to beat Cleveland 2-0.

"We sure would like to have won today," Brewer first baseman George Scott said. "It sure would have been better to start the All-Star break 3½ games out than 4½. But give Wilbur Wood a lot of credit. That's probably the best he pitched all year."

"Even when he gets the ball up today," Brewer first baseman George Scott said. "His catcher had trouble holding onto his pitches even when they were strikes. I think that says what kind of stuff he had."

Wood, who struck out five batters and retired 14 others on infield grounders, said he has pitched well in his last six or eight starts.

"You can't tell that by my record, but the season isn't over yet," he said.

Three walks filled the bases with two out in the Sox' fourth. Loser Bill Travers (4-3) worked the count to 3-2 on Nyman, who then lined his two-run single. After an RBI single by Bill Stein chased Travers, Nyman scored from third on the front end of a double steal.

Nyman's double and a single by Pat Kelly off Pete Broberg scored the Sox' final run in the sixth.

With seven defeats in their last 10 games, the Brewers still reached the All-Star break in better position than at any other time in the franchise's seven-year history. Their best in previous years was 47-48 last season, compared with the current 46-42.

Crandall said he was "very pleased" with the record in view of a plague of injuries, particularly the sore arm which has sidelined relief ace Tom Murphy for a month.

Open-heart surgeon may take pipeline job

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Alaska's only open-heart surgeon has given up his practice and says he may take a job on the trans-Alaska pipeline because he cannot obtain adequate malpractice insurance.

Dr. Arndt Von Hippel said Friday that he closed his office because the highest liability his $40,000-a-year malpractice insurance policy allows is $300,000.

Von Hippel, who has participated in 59 open-heart operations since February 1974, says he has never been sued for malpractice and is entitled to the lowest premium available in his high-risk category.

But he says he cannot obtain insurance of more than $300,000 and, with recent malpractice awards in some cases reaching in excess of $1 million, he does not feel his coverage is sufficient.

"So rather than pay this premium for such inadequate coverage, I have elected to discontinue both my insurance and my practice. I might go up and get a job on the pipeline, or I may find something else I want

Guards using drugs, liquor; charges group

CHICAGO (AP) — The head of a prison watchdog group said today it has turned up evidence of drinking and drug use by guards at the Cook County jail.

Ira Schwartz, executive director of the John Howard Association, said his group also has turned up evidence of understaffing and payoffs by absent guards to conceal their absences from duty.

Schwartz said the irregularities may have been a factor in the breakout of six prisoners from the jail on Thursday. He said other guards at the jail have told him that some guards have not been able to perform their duties properly because they have been under the influence of liquor or drugs.

County authorities said lie-detector tests have cleared four jail guards from involvement in any conspiracy with the escapees but they did indicate "dereliction of duty and responsibility."

Winston Moore, county corrections director, added that he believes all four were asleep when the escape occurred.

Moore said all of them previously had been reprimanded for excessive absenteeism, and that one, Sgt. William Johnson, 45, was relieved of duty Friday when he reported for work "totally intoxicated."

Officials said interviews with 45 inmates later indicated that neither Johnson nor another guard, Clarence Connors, 30, made their regular 15-minute cell checks during the time of the escape.

The other two guards questioned were identified as George Blake, 42, and Sylvester Russin, 44.

Sheriff Richard J. Elrod said an intensive investigation is in progress to determine how the inmates obtained a hacksaw used to cut a hole in a cell wall, enabling them to slide down a 115-foot rope of knotted bedsheets to freedom.

Skinny dipping is not natural right says judge

BOSTON (AP) — "The personal right to bathe in the nude ... is not of such significance that it can be considered a fundamental right," said a federal judge in upholding a ban on skinny-dipping at the Cape Cod National Seashore.

In his ruling, U.S. District Court Judge Frank H. Freedman said Friday that although some areas of the seashore have traditionally been used by nude bathers, an increase in the number of people attracted there was causing environmental problems.

National Park Service officials who put the ban into effect May 19 said the increase in nude bathers was causing parking problems, littering and damage to the beach and sand dunes.

Twelve plaintiffs challenged the ban, contending they had the right to swim and sunbathe in the nude under the constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and assembly.

Under the regulations, first offenders receive a warning and subsequent violations are punishable by a fine of up to $500 and a prison sentence of up to six months.

Warnings have been issued to 222 persons since the regulation went into effect and three persons have been summoned before a U.S. magistrate. In the only completed case, a man was fined $25.

Sugar price starting up

NEW YORK (AP) For the second time this week, major sugar refiners have announced new increases in the wholesale price of grocery sugar.

The increases mean that in some areas, wholesale prices are outpacing the retail cost of sugar already on grocery shelves. But the situation is not expected to get as bad for consumers as during last year's sugar price explosion.

Amstar Corp., the nation's largest refiner, raised the wholesale price five cents a pound Friday, bringing the cost of a five pound bag to $1.55 and a 10-pound bag to $3.15.

National Sugar Refining Co. announced a similar increase. And SuCrest Corp., which like Amstar had announced a 2 cent a pound hike earlier in the week, boosted its prices again to $1.54 for five pounds and $3.08 for ten pounds.

Industry spokesmen said increases in raw sugar prices were to blame. One factor is damage done to the sugar beet crop in the upper Midwest by heavy rains in the Red River Valley.

This week's increases were the first since last November. Government and industry experts generally said they did not expect another price spiral like the one last year when a worldwide sugar shortage pushed the cost of a five-pound sack of sugar above $3 in some places.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Not the most harmonious day in the home. If an argument develops, better to back off. The odds are against you.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Avoid working with tools or mechanical devices if possible today. You tend to be careless. Serious consequences could result.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't attempt anything risky, or if the outcome depends on chance. You're irresponsible today and will make a wrong, costly choice.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be bearing the burdens of others today. Unfortunately, they won't appreciate what you do in their behalf.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Recharge your batteries by withdrawing to a quiet place alone. You're not in the mood for fun and games.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be wary of a friend who approaches you for a loan. It's possible you could lose the money and the friend, too.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Through no fault of yours you could lose a face among associates in an area which means a lot to you. It's just lousy luck.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your perception is way off-base today. It would be wise to avoid analyzing another's motives. You'll only embarrass yourself.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An outspoken friend will unthinkingly cause a rift between you and your loved one, or split you and another pal.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Refrain from making any agreement or contract today. You'll be dealing in good faith. Others won't.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-613: Beth T., aged 20, is a college senior.
"Dr. Crane," her grandmother began, "Beth may have a high I.Q. and qualify for Phi Beta Kappa scholarship honors."
"But in my estimation she lacks even the 'Horse Sense' of a kindergartener!"
"For she has moved in with a boy friend and is living with him as his concubine, without benefit of a wedding ring."
"Her father asked Ann Landers what to do in this situation."
"Ann Landers said that although she personally considered such a thing 'a bummer idea,' she still urged Beth's father not to close the door to Beth."
"For she said Beth is old enough to choose her own life-style and the family should not punish her just because her ideas differ from those of her father and mother."
"But, Dr. Crane, is it wise to condone obvious wrong, for isn't it true that 'Silence gives consent'?"

Porous Minds
A girl who enters into such an illicit sexual relationship as Beth demonstrates, is "chicken" and also stupid.
Even the prostitutes and "Call" girls rate above her, for they at least get cash money for serving as temporary concubines.
But Beth is afraid she can't get her male consort to place a wedding ring on her finger unless she gives in to his sexual demands.

Women's Libbers may try to camouflage this asinine act under their claim of equal rights.
But Beth merely has made a rash gamble that her temporary boy friend will eventually ask to marry her.
Instead, he will more likely go back to his hometown and marry a former sweetheart who held him at arms length till she got a wedding ring!

That will leave Beth as secondhand or used matrimonial merchandise.
Since this is still a man's world, the usual male isn't eager to pay full price (a wedding ring) for used matrimonial merchandise!

Moreover, it is a tragic example of this permissive society to suggest that violators of laws be forgiven, without any punishment.

If we Americans similarly refused to censure Communists who attempt to destroy our Republic and its 'Free Enterprise' economic system, wouldn't that be treasonable on our part?

Just because Beth is a daughter of that family, doesn't mean violation of laws and moral customs should be ignored.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," you may protest, "but isn't it desirable to maintain an open mind about the 'new morality' being urged on many campuses?"

At the foot of page 634 in my college textbook, "Psychology Applied," I have appended this maxim:

"Sometimes an open mind is too porous to hold a conviction."

It is people with "convictions" who have built up our moral codes, plus our churches and most of our colleges.

Moses thus held strict convictions and so did our Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock.

The loose sexual attitude of coeds like Beth often suggest an ultra permissive home environment.

For bad children usually come from bad parents!

So send for my booklet "Tests for Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always Write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

FUNNY BUSINESS

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, July 14, the 196th day of 1975. There are 170 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1789, the citizens of Paris stormed and captured the Bastille. It was the beginning of the French Revolution.

On this date: In 1536, France signed the Treaty of Lyons with Portugal for an attack against Spain.

In 1798, the U.S. Congress passed a sedition act, making it a federal crime to publish false, scandalous or malicious writings against the government.

In 1879, Congress provided a yearly pension of $3,000 for President Abraham Lincoln's widow, Mary Todd Lincoln.

In 1958, Iraq's King Faisal II and his heir and the premier were assassinated in a coup in Baghdad.

In 1966, eight student nurses were slain in a Chicago apartment by 24-year-old Richard Speck.

In 1969, President Richard Nixon announced a national attack on narcotics and asked Congress to enact heavier penalties for LSD and marijuana violations.

Ten years ago: Ambassador Adlai Stevenson collapsed and died on a street in London.

Five years ago: South Korea was protesting against a U.S. plan to reduce the number of American soldiers in South Korea by 20,000.

One year ago: A Former Air Force Chief of Staff, General Carl Spaatz, died at the age of 83.

Today's birthdays: President Gerald Ford is 62 years old. Writer Irving Stone is 72.

Bicentennial footnote: It was 200 years ago today that the Lord Mayor of London and other British leaders petitioned King George to bring about a reconciliation with the American Colonies and end all military operations.

Thought for today: I never think of the future. It comes soon enough. — Albert Einstein, theoretical physicist, 1879-1955.
